'How You Do Talk!'
(Henry VIII)

Laurence Olivier delivered his maiden speech in the British House of Lords the other day in support of an industrial relations bill that would have aided actors.

The famed Shakespearean thespian carried it off nobly: "I fear your lordships may find grim cause to reflect upon the prescient genius of the introducer of this tenderest of courtesies," he said sonorously, "and if I fail to achieve it then I must beg to suggest to your lordships that it would be most contrary to the chivalry for which your lordships' house is so famous to withhold your gallantry and refuse to indulge a maiden of 64."

The lords applauded warmly and then voted down the bill, 102 to 86. It is not clear whether they were trying to tell Olivier, "Smooth not thy tongue with talk" ("The Passionate Pilgrim") or that "Talkers are no good doers" (Richard III). Maybe they were merely suggesting, "Tis better said than done" (Henry VI). — Memphis (Tenn.) Commercial Appeal

From Muskies' Mom

You have to hand it to Edmund Muskies' 80-year-old mother. She's frank.

Two years ago, when Edmund was running for Vice President, she said: "Well, if nobody else any better is offered, I might vote for him."

This last November she was quoted as saying: "I always liked (Edmund's younger brother) Eugene better."

And late in January she said: "I still hope that Ed will not run for President."

Now, in her crowning statement to date, she has said: "People around here often tell me that I should be proud that my son is being considered a possibility for President. You know, I don't see anything wrong with the President we have."

Almost every political candidate can rely on at least two votes — his own and his mom's. Sen. Muskies may be able to count on only one. Why, the way she's going, Sen. Muskies' mom may be enlisted to give the Presidential nominating speech at the Republican Convention next year. — Richmond (Va.) News Leader

U.S. Planes Bomb North Vietnamese

By GEORGE ESPER

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. warplanes tripled their air attacks today and Sunday in efforts to stop North Vietnamese attacks along the demilitarized zone, and B52 bombers were reported striking in the southern half of the DMZ.

The big B52s and the smaller fighter-bombers made up to 200 strikes on elements of four North Vietnamese regiments.

The North Vietnamese forces made new shelling attacks and ground assaults for the fifth day today after driving South Vietnamese troops from a mountain outpost with heavy losses.

The South Vietnamese Command claimed more than 200 North Vietnamese were killed, many of them by U.S. air and artillery attack. Reports said that 33 South Vietnamese troops were killed and 13 South Vietnamese and two American advisers were wounded.

Medina Trial Scheduled to Resume

By KATHRYN JOHNSON

Associated Press Writer

FT. MCPHERSON, Ga. (AP) — The trial of Capt. Ernest Medina, charged with assault and murder of 102 Vietnamese civilians during the My Lai raid in March 1968, resumes today.

It has been in recess since July 28 while nearly 50 witnesses were being summoned.

The 34-year-old Medina, who won the Silver Star for heroism in combat in Vietnam, will be tried before a jury of five officers, all of whom served in Vietnam.

The wiry, black-haired captain, of Mexican-American extraction, will be tried on a non-capital basis. The maximum sentence a jury could give him, therefore, would be life imprisonment.

While the captain is charged with premeditated murder, the Army says he is not accused of personally killing all of the 102 persons. Maj. William Eckhardt, the Army prosecutor, has said Medina is accused of acting as a "principal" to the killings, one who "counsels, commands or procures another to commit an offense."

Medina, a Montrose, Colo., resident, was the commander of Charlie Company when the Americal Division staged an infantry assault on the Vietnamese village March 16, 1968.

One of his platoon leaders that day was Lt. William L. Calley Jr., who was convicted March 29 at Ft. Benning, Ga. of 22 murders. Calley was tried on a capital basis but the jury set his sentence at life. His case is under review.

Good to See Teenage Child Start Making Like a Human Again

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the greatest joys of parenthood is the feeling you get when you suspect your teenage child is becoming a human being again.

It almost makes you feel that you are still a human being, too.

I have two basic theories about life. One is that you begin to lose authority over a child the moment it no longer needs you to sling it over your shoulder and burp it. The other theory is that Kindergarten is the apex adventure for both little men and little women, and that all other excitements and adjustments of living thereafter trend downhill.

Between kindergarten and the teen years there is a lull where the parents enjoy the false sense of security while the child plots its breakout.

MURFREESBORO, Ark. (AP)

A spokesman said the diamond was the largest found so far this year at the tourist attraction. Officials said the diamond would be worth between $5,000 and $7,000 when cut.

Catholics Ask Release of Prisoners

By COLIN FROST

Associated Press Writer

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Roman Catholic political leaders called Sunday night for a campaign of nonviolent civil disobedience until the government of Northern Ireland releases all the prisoners it is holding without trial or charge.

Nine of the 12 opposition members of the provincial parliament signed a statement urging the province's 500,000 Catholics to embark on a Gandhian disobedience campaign against the internment law invoked a week ago by Prime Minister Brian Faulkner.

British soldiers rounded up more than 300 persons suspected of being fighters for the terrorist Irish Republican Army, and at least 26 persons were killed in the week of rioting that followed.

The legislators said their plans include refusal to pay local taxes and rents. Meanwhile, Bernadette Devlin, the fiery 23-year-old Catholic member of the British Parliament from Northern Ireland, called for protest strikes against the Protestant provincial government and the 12,500 British troops trying to keep down the violence in the six Ulster counties.

There was a weekend lull in the rioting, but snipers fired at an army patrol near the center of Belfast. There were no injuries. Two bombs were planted in a university residence, but did not go off.

Other explosions were heard in the capital and in Londonderry. Stores and buildings were damaged, and street mobs confronted the troops in both cities.

Masked terrorists reportedly kidnapped a Londonderry policeman as a hostage for the interned prisoners and took him across the border in an ambulance to the Irish Republic.

The kidnap victim was reported to be Constable Daniel Barr, a Catholic member of the Royal Ulster Constabulary who earlier in the night was beaten by an angry Catholic mob in Londonderry. Barr was saved from the mob by a group of Roman Catholic priests and a Protestant army chaplain. A priest who reportedly accompanied him in the ambulance said he was "not in too bad shape."

Japan Says Import Tax a Big Blow

TOKYO (AP) — Japanese officials said today that President Nixon's new import tax will be a heavy blow to Japan's export trade.

Chief Cabinet Secretary Noboru Takeshita told a news conference the government hopes the 10 per cent surtax will be lifted as soon as possible. He said the government has no plan to revalue the yen upward, and the Bank of Japan will buy dollars in case there is excessive selling on the Tokyo foreign exchange market.

Other officials and business leaders predicted that the emergency economic measures Nixon announced Sunday night would seriously affect U.S.-Japanese trade, which in 1969 totaled $4.9 billion in exports to the United States and $3.5 billion in goods shipped the other way.

An official at the semi-official Japan External Trade Organization said the import surtax is "one step short of a total suspension of imports on the part of the U.S."

A Finance Ministry official said Nixon's action could have a deflationary effect on the Japanese economy, which has been sluggish for some time. The willingness of Japanese businessmen to invest in new plants and equipment may be seriously curtailed, he added.

Officials of the Ministry of International Trade and Industry said the Japanese government would not take any action in retaliation for the import surtax, at least for the time being. But Shige Kurebayashi of the Fuji Bank termed the surtax a "partial revaluation of the yen" and said pressure for a full upward revaluation of the Japanese currency is likely to increase.

Foreign Ministry sources said their department was shocked by the President's announcement. They said the government had been planning to urge against any extra import charge when the Japan-U.S. Committee on Trade and Economic Affairs meets in Washington next month.

Financial and banking leaders said the U.S. economy must be at its worst ever and the new policy will no doubt cause a serious impact on the international monetary situation.

Prices on the Tokyo Stock Exchange dropped sharply on a broad front, and dealers on the Tokyo foreign exchange market estimated that the Bank of Japan bought more than $300 million this morning from commercial banks unloading their dollar balances.

Paperworkers Seek Contract at Malvern

MALVERN, Ark. (AP) — Glenn Brown of Rolla, president of Local 999 of the Paperworkers Union (AFL-CIO), said Sunday no date had been set for negotiations between the union and the International Paper Co. plant near Malvern.

The union and management failed to reach agreement Friday on a new contract and 148 plant employees went on strike. Brown said he expected the strike to continue Monday.

The company and the union have been negotiating since June 29. The old contract expired Aug. 1.

Brown said the union has asked for an hourly wage increase of about 25 cents, additional insurance coverage and more vacation time.

Connally Cites Stability of Action

By STERLING F. GREEN

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally said today he does not consider President Nixon's suspension of the dollar's convertibility a devaluation of the dollar.

"In my judgment the dollar is going to rise vis-a-vis some currencies in the world and will decline vis-a-vis other currencies in the world," Connally said at a news conference on Nixon's emergency economic program announced Sunday night.

Predicting that the decision to let the dollar "float" in value in world money markets pending a reshuffling of currency values represents more realistic exchange rates, Connally said that "most countries understand this—they understand the position we're in."

Mills Sees Approval of Tax Credits

By MIKE DOAN

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wilbur Mills, the key tax man in Congress, says President Nixon's new economic plan is excellent and "looks like he has been following somebody's advice."

Mills predicted the House Ways and Means Committee, which he heads, will approve Nixon's recommendation for investment tax credits. The committee has virtual life-and-death control over all tax legislation.

The Arkansas Democrat last month proposed the tax credit, other tax reductions and wage and price guidelines.

At his home in Kensett, Ark., Mills commented only briefly, saying Nixon's "game plan is excellent."

Other congressional reaction to Nixon's wage-price-rent freeze and other economic proposals was generally favorable, although some Democrats said he should have acted sooner.

Five Persons Killed on Highways

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Five persons lost their lives on Arkansas' highways this past weekend. That total was boosted by a triple-fatality accident near Rosebud in White County Saturday night.

The Associated Press weekend highway fatality county began at 6 p.m. Friday and ended at midnight Sunday.

Killed in that accident near Rosebud were Richard Johnson, 24, of Rosebud; Harold Garrison, 29, of Joy (White County); and Lonnie Baker, 24, of Rosebud. Baker died in a little rock hospital Sunday of injuries suffered in the accident.

The State Police said a car driven by Garrison crossed Arkansas 36 and struck a pickup truck driven by Rufus Garrard, 52, of Rosebud. Garrard was hospitalized at Heber Springs.

Timothy H. Reid, 6, and Lynn Reid, 9, of Hazen were killed Friday night when a car driven by Howard Reid, 43, of Hazen collided with a Rock Island train in Hazen.

Reid was injured.

Exchanges in Europe Closed, Dollar Is Under Fierce Pressure

By LOUIS NEVIN

Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — The dollar came under fierce pressure abroad today and major European money exchanges closed awaiting clarification of President Nixon's action to defend the U.S. Dollar.

Exporters from Europe to the Orient expressed concern about the effect of the 10 per cent surcharge on dutiable goods not subject to import quotas.

The closing of money markets, triggered by Nixon's decision to suspend settlement of international transactions in gold, left many American tourists abroad hard-pressed to buy foreign exchange.

They felt the devaluing effect of the financial measures when they had to pay premiums at commercial outlets.

In Japan, which will certainly feel the impact of the measures, the Central Bank supported the dollar at its official rate of 357.37 yen and the foreign exchange was still open.

Britain, West Germany, Switzerland, Sweden, Norway, Italy and South Africa among others closed their foreign exchange and gold markets. France, Belgium and Luxembourg had a bank holiday for the Roman Catholic Feast of the Assumption.

In Frankfurt, shares of companies likely to be affected by the surcharge dropped sharply, including such automobile makers as Volkswagen. The Swiss Cabinet was told the surcharge would affect about 90 per cent of all Swiss exports to the United States, which totaled $455 million last year.

Japanese officials in Tokyo said the import taxes would seriously affect trade with the United States. A member of the Japan External Trade Association said the tax was "one step short of a total suspension of imports on the part of the United States." Japanese exports to the United States were $4.9 billion in 1969 compared to $3.5 billion imports.

An international monetary conference appeared to be shaping up to study charges in the international system set up in 1944 at Bretton Woods, N.H.

Generally, American Tourists in Europe took the crisis in stride, although the cashier of one of the Paris' most exclusive hotels said: "There's a real panic."

Takes Action to Combat Inflation

By FRANK CORMIER

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, declaring that "America is at her greatest when she is called on to compete," has imposed a largely voluntary 90-day wage-price freeze and invited world reshuffling of exchange rates—changes that would amount to a devaluation of the dollar.

In a hastily arranged television and radio address to the nation Sunday night, Nixon pictured his far-ranging program—much of which he put into effect immediately—as a bid to cut unemployment, stem inflation, protect the dollar and make American goods more competitive with foreign products.

The President's historic announcement that the United States is abandoning its long-standing policy of selling gold to foreign governments at $35 an ounce, and the wage-price move, were among the measures that took immediate effect.

So too was a "temporary" average surcharge of 10 per cent on many imported products, which should result in corresponding hikes in the amount Americans pay for Volkswagen and Toyota autos, Grundig and Sony electronic equipment and a host of other items. Exempt would be such quota-subject imports as petroleum, coffee, ores, cotton textiles, sugar and fish.

Nixon also proposed new tax breaks for consumers and businesses, including repeal of the 7-per-cent federal excise that adds an average $200 to the cost of a new car. But Congress must act on these recommendations.

He asked Congress to postpone implementation of his high-priority revenue-sharing and welfare-reform proposals for three months and one year respectively. Congress has shown a reluctance to approve either measure.

On his own, Nixon promised to cut federal employment by 5 per cent, impose a six-month freeze on federal pay hikes scheduled for Jan. 1, and take other steps designed to reduce spending by $4.7 billion.

The surprise moves, which Nixon claimed were the most comprehensive in four decades in the economic sphere, were viewed as the President's reply to Democratic critics who contend the state of the economy—now Vietnam—will be the major political issue in the 1972 election.

It was noted, too, that Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally, who collaborated closely with Nixon in drafting the package, was trotted out to brief newsmen on the development. This could only have the effect of adding to speculation that Texas Democrat Connally may supplant Spiro T. Agnew as the 1972 GOP vice presidential candidate.

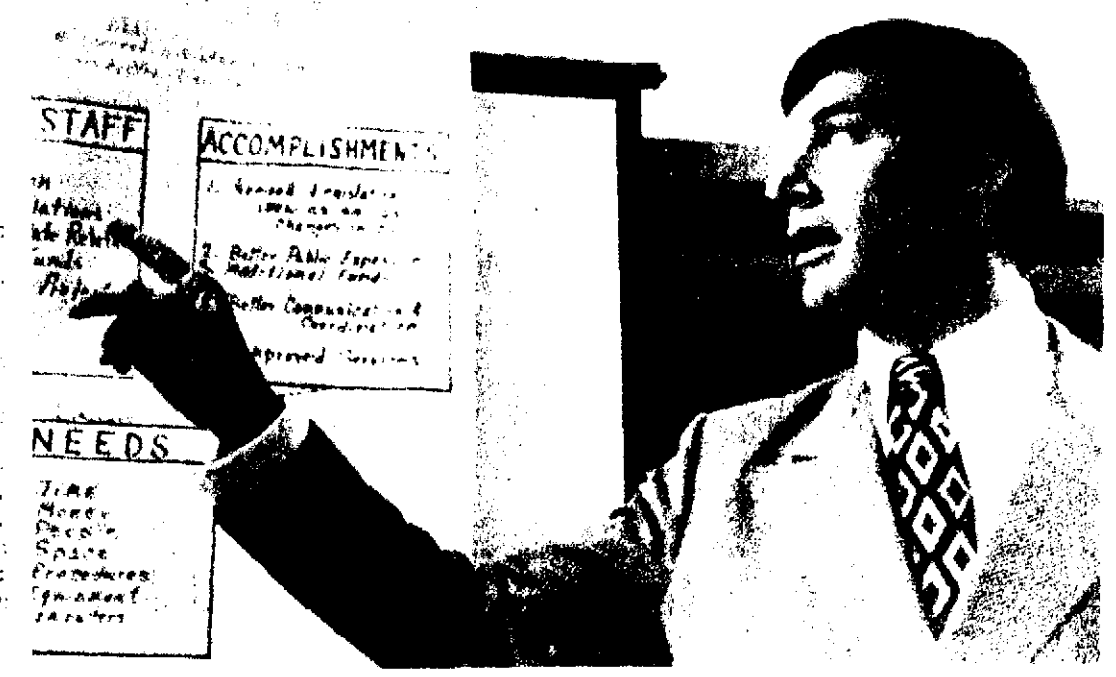

Congress was out of town for a month-long recess when the President made his announcement and reaction from lawmakers was slow in coming.

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., who as chairman of the Ways and Means Committee ranks as most influential tax man in Congress, called Nixon's new economic plan excellent and predicted favorable committee action on the President's call for reconstituting the investment tax credit to spur business spending.

State to Be Warm, Skies Clear to Cloudy

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Arkansas is forecast to get clear to partly cloudy skies and warm weather through Tuesday.

The state's weather continues to be controlled by a large high-pressure area centered over the Great Lakes and extending southwestward into Texas. There are no frontal systems near enough to affect Arkansas.

High temperatures through Tuesday should range from the mid 80s to low 90s. Low tonight will range from the mid 60s to low 70s.

Rainfall from the thunder-showers Sunday was generally light, but Mulberry received 1.20 inches.

Temperatures Sunday afternoon were mostly in the 80s with Jonesboro and Fort Smith recording 90 for the highest. Lows this morning were mostly in the mid 60s to mid 70s.

Last year 84,323 cars, valued at $104 million, were reported stolen in New York City.

Reaction of Economists Mixed

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Economists have given mixed reviews to President Nixon's proposals to stimulate the economy, with comments ranging from enthusiastic endorsement to predictions that the program will not work in the long run.

The broad steps outlined by the President Sunday night also drew general—although in some cases highly qualified—approval from a number of leading bankers.

"We're better off this Monday morning than we were Friday night," summed up Nobel Prize winning economist Paul Samuelson. He said he approved all eight points in the President's plan except the cut-back of $4.7 billion in federal spending.

"I hope the President's arithmetic is wrong," said Samuelson at his Belmont, Mass., home. "If he cuts expenditures by $4.7 billion to match the tax cuts, that won't create one extra job. It will create negative jobs ... That would completely emasculate his whole program."

John Kenneth Galbraith, the Harvard economist who was ambassador to India during the Kennedy administration, termed the program "one step forward (the wage-price freeze) and two steps backward (the investment tax credit and the international segment)."

Of the wage-price freeze he noted: "The question here is the energy with which efforts will be made to make things permanent. After all, this is only for 90 days."

"On balance, his proposals for expanding jobs will probably lead to a contraction in the number of jobs," said Galbraith in Newfane, Vt.

"Eliminating the automobile excise tax, accelerating the investment credit and advancing the income tax exemptions are very inefficient ways of expanding the economy because they put money in the hands of people who don't need it," he said.

Milton Friedman, the conservative economist at the University of Chicago, said he approved of the spending and tax cuts but called the wage and price freeze "purely cosmetic."

"The effect will be to conceal price and wage increases, not prevent them," said Friedman from a vacation retreat in Ely, Vt. "Our experience from World War II and other times proves that people will find ways to evade the freeze."

"Anything which will reduce spending and taxes is all to the good and closing the window on gold simply makes explicit what has been, in fact, implicit anyway," he said.

University of California economist Prof. John M. Letiche said the wage-price freeze "can't work in the long run. In the long run, ending the Viet-

Boldness of Nixon's Action Praised But Doubts Workability

By STERLING F. GREEN

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's triple-twist in economic policy wins applause for boldness but raises some doubts as to workability.

It should protect the dollar and it could help curb inflation—but can it simultaneously create jobs for the unemployed?

Industry executives and economists agree in general that the nation will benefit—through lower export prices and therefore improved competitiveness in world trade—from the President's decision to stop paying out gold for all the dollars that might be presented to the Treasury by foreign governments.

Suspension of full convertibility break—temporarily, says the President—the dollar's time-honored link with gold, the U.S. guarantee to convert dollars into gold at $35 an ounce.

The dollar therefore will have no fixed value in the world's money markets. It will float—presumably downward, in transactions with strong foreign currencies like the Japanese yen and German mark—to new and more realistic rates of exchange.

It would in effect be devalued. Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally avoids the word, but most bankers and industrialists are ready to welcome it.

Americans buying American goods would see no effect. But foreigners buying goods prices in U.S. dollars would find them cheaper because the dollar would be worth less in their money.

So American goods would be more competitively priced and U.S. exports in due course would expand. At the same time imports would go up in cost; their volume might be reduced.

That would help narrow the U.S. payments deficit. Giving the dollar a more defensible and realistic value would reduce its vulnerability to attack by speculators who increasingly, in recent years, have tried to score big, cheap profits by offering dollars for German marks or Japanese yen in hope of a dollar devaluation—or an upward revaluation of the other currencies.

Nixon added a potent persuader to induce Japan and other strong-currency countries to move toward more realistic exchange rates. He ordered a temporary 10-per-cent tax surcharge on imports.

On the home front, Nixon's 90-day freeze of prices, wages and rents may prove more dramatic than effective. But the action say, something his administration has never said clearly before: This time we mean business.

During the next three months Nixon's new cabinet-level Cost of Living Council will work with leaders of industry and labor "to set up the proper mechanism for achieving price and wage stability after the 90-day freeze is over," Nixon said.

Wallace had invoked the police powers of the state in issuing an executive order to the Jefferson County School Board to transfer a white pupil from a court-assigned predominantly black school to a predominantly white school nearer her home.

Wallace had said he was trying to "help President Nixon carry out his wishes for no massive busing."

Pryor Would Like to Be a Senator

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Rep. David Pryor, D-Ark., said Sunday he had "always thought that I'd love to be a United States senator," but he did not say if he would run next year.

Pryor had been mentioned as a possible candidate for the position now held by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark.

Pryor said during an interview with a Little Rock television station that he had been using his spare time to work for Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., and had not been considering his own campaign.

"I've spent so much time in the past 60 days doing what I can in assisting Mr. Mills and his possible presidential candidacy that I have not been doing any serious decision making or going through any process such as that regarding the Senate race."

Asked if his friendship with Mills would prevent him from running, Pryor said: "It would not in any way influence my decision if I felt the timing was there and it was within the realm of possibility. At the very least, I think I'll be running for something."

If McClellan does run Pryor would not say if he would support him.

American Party Drive Is Started

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Walter Carruth of Lexa, chairman of the America party of Arkansas, says the drive to obtain the signatures needed to get the party certified has begun at a most opportune time.

Once certified, the party can run candidates for political office in 1972. Carruth said Saturday that the only candidate the party wanted to get on the ballot at the moment was George Wallace of Alabama for president.

Carruth pointed out that Gov. Wallace's statements and actions last week in opposing busing to achieve racial balance would aid the petition drive.

"We can't have any better advertising than Gov. Wallace has given us to start this drive," Carruth said. "I don't think we could have timed our campaign better."

He said it would "remain a question I'll have to decide on in the future."

Asked about the seniority accumulated by McClellan, Pryor said he thought "there is a range of effectiveness for a person with not quite so much seniority ... If he channels his efforts in the right way and in the right direction and makes the proper contacts and is willing to constantly endeavor to fight for his constituents."

GOPs Want Opposition to McClellan

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Executive Board of the Arkansas Young Republicans urged Sunday that one of several leading Republicans seek the Senate seat now held by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark.

Among those named by the board as possible candidates were: former Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller; state Sen. Jim Caldwell; state Rep. George Nowotny; Pulaski County Clerk Jerome Climer and Charles Bernard, state GOP chairman.

"We feel that the time is long overdue for a young man" to obtain McClellan's seat, the resolution said.

Chester Mercer, president of the board, said that the resolution noted that Rep. John Paul Hammerschmidt, R-Ark., had announced his support of McClellan for re-election.

The resolution said "We feel that Congressman John Paul Hammerschmidt is entitled to support and vote for whomever he wishes."

The board also pledged to support financially and morally a proposed suit by the Pulaski County Republican Committee against the State Board of Apportionment.

The board said that the use of some multi-member districts in the state House was discriminatory.

Market Piles Up Gains at Record Pace

By JOHN HENRY

AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, reacting to sweeping new economic policies by President Nixon, piled up spectacular gains today as trading proceeded at a record pace.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rocketed 27.01 points to 883.03 at 12:30 p.m. Volume of the Big Board hit a two-hour record of 14.6 million shares at noon, well ahead of the previous record of 12.26 million shares traded through noon on April 30, 1969.

Brokers noted that nearly 1,400 issues were higher with fewer than 50 stocks trading at prices lower than Friday's close.

Gold-mining stock prices were among those falling. Piled up orders delayed the opening of many blue chip stocks expected to be key beneficiaries of the new Nixon administration policies.

MANSION FOR LEARNING

WEST LONG BRANCH, N.J. (AP) — The original building that stood on the site of what is now Monmouth College's Woodrow Wilson Hall, was a 52-room colonial mansion built in 1927 by John A. McCall, former life insurance company president.

The building was loaned to the United States government as a summer White House for President Woodrow Wilson.

The Nixon "freeze," authorized under the Economic Stabilization Act of 1970, could be extended beyond 90 days or, said the administration, there could be a transitional return to "free markets without inflation."

In any case, interest rates, dividends on common stock and the prices of agricultural commodities are exempt from the restraints.

However, Connally today was expected to call upon lenders to voluntarily put a lid on current interest rates. And Nixon asked for a similar temporary ceiling on dividend payments.

On the tax front, besides calling for repeal of the auto excise retroactive to Sunday, Nixon:

—Proposed that businessmen be allowed rapid first-year tax writeoffs to cover 10 per cent of the cost of investments in new plants and equipment, which he said would create jobs and make domestic industry more competitive internationally. The writeoffs would be in addition to normal depreciation deductions.

This plan would be in effect for just one year, retroactive to Sunday, and after that would be replaced by a permanent 5-per-cent quick-write-off proviso.

—Asked Congress to advance by one year, to next Jan. 1, the effective date of an already-approved measure to permit a $50 hike in personal exemptions for individual income taxpayers and their dependents.

WOMAN AND ARITHMETIC DON'T MIX

Dear Helen: I goofed up our checking account after my husband finally said I could have a joint checkbook, and take care of the bookkeeping. He was so proud of me because I came out way in the black the first two months. So we brought a nice desk with the leftover money.

Then the bank called and said there was an overdraft. How could I tell Dave I added wrong? So I borrowed $100 to put in our account, thinking I could pay it back from what I saved with smart shopping. But, as you know, groceries are getting more expensive all the time, and I haven't been able to make payments on my loan, and they're getting tough.

The only valuable thing I've got is my diamond engagement ring, but if I hock it, I'd have to tell Dave I lost it, and then he'd still think I was untrustworthy.

How can I get out of this mess? —DUNNED AND DUMB BRIDE Dear D and DB:

By not getting in any deeper! Better to lose face with your husband than lose your shirt (or your ring) to high-interest money-lenders. Tell him; and work out the payments together. You may even share a good laugh over this—on your 10th wedding anniversary. —H.

My husband takes better care of our pets than of me. At least he buys dog bones. He won't give me even a dollar. Says I must earn it myself. I'm on maternity leave now, and I need to buy things for the baby. He says I should have saved it from my salary. He expects me to go back to work right away, so I will not only be wife, mother, maid, cleaning woman, cook and home repair expert, but also pay my exact half of the bills, plus buy all the clothes and incidentals for all of us. How does he spend HIS money? Who knows?

I've left him twice, partly because of his stinginess, but also because of his indifference. He never asks how I feel. He's only interested in how much I make. Don't suggest a counselor, or a budget. I've showered him with affection, done everything for him, even to washing his hair. I praise him and pamper him. And he only gets worse. Suddenly I discover I no longer love him. Should I pack my bags and leave? —DESPERATE Dear Des:

First things first. Have your baby. Then have it out with your husband. If he continues hopelessly indifferent, stinky and impossible—well, I still can't make the decision for you, but it shouldn't be a hard one for YOU to make. —H.

Says Teachers Should Back a Candidate

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — David Selden, president of the American Federation of Teachers, said today the 250,000-member teacher union should actively support a presidential candidate. In a speech prepared for delivery before 1,000 delegates to the 55th annual AFT convention, Selden declared: "The time has come for the AFT to come down out of the ivory tower ... and see if we cannot bring about an administration which will view education as a prime necessity in American life."

Asserting that there can "be no neutrals," Selden said: "President Nixon has established an unprecedented record: he is the only president ever to veto two educational appropriation bills."

Selden urged AFT locals to make it possible for teachers to make political contributions through payroll deductions. "Political power in the 70s in America is directly related to the kind of money one can raise," he said. The teacher leader also attacked performance contracts in public schools under which a private concern using its own systems agrees to raise the reading or math grade of students and is paid only if it reaches a predetermined goal. As a result of performance contracting, Selden said, "a nationwide scandal of major proportion is developing which will further discredit the entire educational enterprise."

In one instance, he said, a firm has been found to be teaching essentially to prepare students for the test.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The golden age group, probably the most neglected segment of the television audience, will soon have a little corner of its own on a network show.

Burt Mustin, a proud and energetic 87, and queenie Smith, whose age is nobody's business but her own, are among the co-stars of NBC's forthcoming comedy series, "The Funny Side."

The constant quest of the television producer is the program will universal appeal. Age, sex and condition of life all play a part in the viewer's choice. Generally, however, men like sports and westerns; women go for human drama—soap operas and medical shows; kids like cartoons.

Since sponsors invest their television money to sell their products, network programs have tended to concentrate on the biggest consumers, young (22 to 35 years of age) parents with expanding families. They are the ones who hit the checkout counters with the overflowing shopping carts.

The older people, perhaps the most dependent of all on the companionship of their sets, receive scant attention. Lawrence Welk and ABC called it quits, undoubtedly because his audience was largely composed of the post-50 crowd. Many a daytime game show with satisfactory Nielsen ratings has been bumped because audience studies showed the younger mothers were turned to another channel suffering deliciously with a soap heroine.

Burt and Queenie are but one of five couples who will act, sing and dance in the new series, a sort of weekly revue. But the concept suggests that the hour will each week try to have something for everybody.

In addition to the senior citizens, there will be a rich couple, a black couple, a working-class couple and a teen-age couple. Originally dreamed up as "Marriage Can Be Fun," the base was broadened so that the themes will include everything from birth to death, and taxes to women's lib.

Mustin, whose name may not be familiar but whose face certainly is, retired at 67 after years as an automobile and hearing aid salesman in the East. Stage struck all his life, he got a small part in a film—and has been working steadily ever since. Miss Smith, by contrast, has been a performer since she was 12, and was a Broadway musical comedy star in the 1920s.

Carol Burnett and Harvey Korman have an old folks segment that makes fun of the crotchets of age. Dick Van Dyke and Tim Conway burlesque the infirmities of the old. None, presumably, is popular with the gray-heads.

Attending her sister as matron of honor was Mrs. Melinda French of Huntsville. Bridesmaids were Miss Kathryn Gilchrist of Lake Charles, Miss Debbie Branscum and Miss Laura Brady, both of Kountze.

Roger Harvill of Conroe served as best man. Groomsmen were David Norvell of Valdosta, Ga., and Thomas Norvell, brothers of the groom, and Bobby Beane of Kilgore. Seating guests were Wade Miller and William Byers. Kathy Gilbert and Rachel Hatton were flower girls and Mike Gilbert and John Hatton lighted the candles.

Matty Alou Has Cards Thinking Big

By BERT ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Sports Writer
Little Matty Alou has the St. Louis Cardinals thinking big. The diminutive native of the Dominican Republic blasted a three-run homer Sunday to cap a five-run eighth inning rally and give the Cardinals a 6-4 victory over his former Pittsburgh teammates, pulling St. Louis within four games of the slumping first-place Pirates in the National League East.

As the ball cleared the right field wall at Pittsburgh's Three Rivers Stadium, Alou clapped his hands and jumped for joy. "I knew it was going out as soon as I hit it," said the 5-9, 160-pound first baseman-outfielder.

The victory gave the Cards a sweep of the four-game series and moved them closer to first place than they have been since June 15.

Elsewhere in the National League, San Francisco beat New York 6-1; Montreal downed Atlanta 6-3; Cincinnati topped Chicago 5-1; Houston edged Atlanta 5-4; and San Diego nipped Philadelphia 5-4 in the first game of a doubleheader and completed a sweep with a 3-2 triumph.

In the American League, Oakland defeated New York 6-4; Chicago shaded Baltimore 2-1; Kansas City trimmed Boston 5-1; Detroit whipped Minnesota 7-5; Milwaukee decisioned Cleveland 4-2, and California took Washington 4-3 in 10 innings.

Alou, one of three brothers in the major leagues (the others are first baseman-outfielder Felipe with the New York Yankees and outfielder Jesus with Houston) came to the Cards on Jan. 29, 1971 in a trade that also brought pitcher George Brunet to St. Louis in exchange for outfielder Vic Favalillo and pitcher Nelson Briles.

His decisive homer followed singles by Ted Simmons and Joe Hagge off Pirate starter Bruce Kison and Ted Kubiak's single and pinch hitter Jerry McNertney's two-run single off reliever Bob Miller. The drive, Alou's fourth hit of the game and fourth homer of the season, was the first homer off Miller in 72 2-3 innings this season.

Before the Cards' winning up-rising, the Pirates had built a 4-1 lead, with the help of Willie Stargell's 40th and 41st homers, accounting for three runs. Despite the loss, Pittsburgh's 13th in 17 games, Manager Danny Murtagh said, "There's no reason to panic. Every club I have ever managed has had slumps like this."

Nevertheless, the Pirates' lead which was once 11½ games, now is four. In the NL West, the Giants victory over the Mets rebuilt their lead to six games over Los Angeles.

Juan Marichal pitched his second complete game victory for San Francisco after going winless since June 23. He allowed only five hits.

Willie Mays and Bobby Bonds supplied the Giants' batting punch. Mays slammed a three-run homer, his first since July 18 but his 16th of the season and his 644th lifetime, second only to Babe Ruth's all-time record of 714. Bonds smashed his 22nd homer, a booming 425-foot drive to deep center field at San Francisco's Candlestick Park.

Gary Sutherland keyed a three-run first inning with a two-run single and belted a homer in the eighth, leading Montreal past Los Angeles. Bob Bailey also homered for the Expos, while Jim Fahey collected three singles in support of Steve Renko's nine-hit pitching.

Rookie Ross Grimsley stopped Chicago on four hits, while homers by Johnny Bench and Hal McRae powered Cincinnati's offense against the Cubs.

Ron Santo, Chicago's usually sure-handed third baseman, committed three errors, helping the Reds score two runs.

Jim Wynn's two-run single in the eighth inning, following a single by Bob Watson and

40 Bobcats Report for First Time

Last Saturday morning, coaches began whipping the 1971 edition of the Hope Bobcats into shape for the opening football game against Ashdown, September 3.

With over 40 boys present for the first practice, the team went through various agility drills before breaking up into groups for defensive tutoring. The same procedure was used in the afternoon with the groups learning offensive techniques.

After taking Sunday off, the Bobcats resume practice today in shorts before putting on the pads Friday for a little head knocking.

For the first days' look the Bobcats appear to have good size and speed. And with a good winning attitude and desire the Cats will be ready for the season opener.

Travers Stake May Clear Race Picture

The running of the historic Travers Stakes at Saratoga next Saturday may help clear the muddy picture in the 3-year-old thoroughbred racing division.

Canonero II appeared to be the standout after he won the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness. But he has been sidelined by a leg infection.

Pass Catcher, the surprise winner of the Belmont Stakes, and Jim French then moved to the fore. But both finished out of the money in the recent Monmouth Invitational.

The likely favorite for the Travers is 1¼ miles is William Levin's greatly improved Bold Reason, who has won his last five starts. Other Travers probabilities include Eastern Fleet, Kennedy Roads, Good Behavior and Epic Journey.

While the Travers will be run for the 102nd time, the $100,000 Hobson Handicap will have its inaugural running at Liberty Bell in Philadelphia.

A third $100,000 race is listed for this weekend, the Benjamin F. Lindheimer at Arlington. Other Saturday features include the Venter Handicap at Atlantic City, the Cabrillo Handicap at Del Mar, and Princess Doreen Handicap at Rockingham and the Edine Handicap at Delaware Park, which reopens for the second half of its 1971 meeting.

Denis Menke's second straight double, enabled Houston to overcome a 4-3 Atlanta lead and beat the Braves. Doug Rader's homer with one on in the second produced the first two Astro runs and Larry Howard delivered the other run with a sacrifice fly in the seventh.

The Braves' Hank Aaron extended his hitting streak to 22 consecutive games by smacking his 32nd homer of the season and 624th lifetime in the sixth inning, breaking a 2-2 tie.

Rookie Earl Williams also homered for the Braves in the sixth. It was his 23rd. Nate Colbert's 390-foot single drove in two runs in the bottom of the ninth inning and gave San Diego its first-game victory over Philadelphia. It followed two walks and an infield single by Clarence Gaston.

Gaston had lashed a two-run homer in the fifth, while Colbert had a run-scoring single in the seventh.

In the nightcap, Larry Stahl's homer following singles by Enzo Hernandez and Dave Campbell in the third inning were the only runs Dave Roberts needed to win his 11th game. Roberts allowed only seven hits and one earned run on Willie Montanez' 25th homer—reducing his earned run average to 2.04—the lowest in the National League among starting pitchers who have worked 100 or more innings.

Was Another Blue Sunday in New York

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
It was Blue Sunday in New York and just another black day for Jim Perry in Minneapolis-St. Paul. Vida Blue, leading candidate for the Cy Young Award as the American League's best pitcher, responded to a "Blue Day" crowd at Yankee Stadium by leading the Oakland A's to a 6-4 victory over New York.

While Blue continued an amazing success story with his 22nd victory, Detroit stopped Minnesota 7-5 and pinned the eight straight loss on Perry, last year's Cy Young winner.

Perry, who joined the pitching elite last season with a 24-12 won-lost record and led Minnesota to a Western Division title, failed for the 10th straight time to win his 13th game this year. The loss was his 14th. His last victory was June 30, 10-4 over Oakland.

In the other American League games, the Kansas City Royals tripped the Boston Red Sox 5-1; the Chicago White Sox turned back the Baltimore Orioles 2-1; the California Angels defeated the Washington Senators 4-3 in 10 innings and the Milwaukee Brewers bounced the Cleveland Indians 4-2.

In the National League, the St. Louis Cardinals downed the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-4; the Cincinnati Reds clouted the Chicago Cubs 5-1; The Houston Astros trimmed the Atlanta Braves 5-4; the San Francisco Giants ripped the New York Mets 6-1; the Montreal Expos beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 6-3; and the San Diego Padres whipped the Philadelphia Phillies 5-4 in the first game of a doubleheader and completed a sweep with a 3-2 victory in the night-cap.

A crowd of 45-343 turned up at Yankee Stadium as New York celebrated Oakland's fabulous southpaw with a special day. Thousands wore blue and anyone named Blue was admitted free.

They saw Blue battle the Yankees with both his arm and bat. He knocked in the first Oakland run with a squeeze-bunt single in the second inning, then survived a four-run New York seventh, before bunting for another hit and eventually scoring the winning run in a four-run Oakland eighth.

The victory was not without its effects on the 22-year-old star.

"I feel the tension every day," said Blue. "Physically, I'm all right ... but I sometimes feel like I'm going to crack up mentally."

Brown, a first inning replacement after a collision in the Detroit outfield between Dick McAuliffe and Mickey Stanley, was a pain in the neck for Perry. Pressed into action after center fielder Stanley suffered a slight concussion, Brown chased in a run with a fifth-inning triple and walloped a three-run homer in the sixth.

Paul Schaal drove in all of Kansas City's runs with a single, triple and three-run homer as the Royals continued a spell with their ninth straight triumph over Boston and 10th over two seasons. It was Kansas City's eighth victory in nine games but the red-hot Royals have failed to gain ground on front-runner Oakland in the AL West because the streaking A's have won seven straight.

Steve Huntz delivered a tie-breaking single with two out in the sixth inning, lifting Wilbur Wood and Chicago over Baltimore. Jay Johnstone opened the decisive sixth with a double and was sacrificed to third. Bill Melton bounced out and Rick Reichardt walked before Huntz singled off loser Pat Dobson, and helped Wood to his 15th victory.

Sandy Alomar led off the 10th inning with a single and eventually scored the winning run on pinch-hitter Billy Cowan's force-play bouncer to help California break a four-game losing streak.

After Alomar got his hit, Mickey Rivers beat out a bunt, pinch-hitter Ken Berry sacrificed and Johnny Stephenson was intentionally walked before Alomar raced home with the game-winner as Washington failed to complete a double play on Cowan's roller.

Bob Heise doubled home a fifth-inning run and drove in the winner with an infield out in the sixth to give Milwaukee

Broyles Will Go for Short Yardage

By HARRY KING
Associated Press Writer
FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Frank Broyles has borrowed a page from Darrell Royal's play book to give Arkansas' short yardage attack more versatility.

Broyles has incorporated the Wishbone-T which Royal has used with such great success at Texas the past three years.

For most of 1968, 1969 and 1970 Arkansas could, and did, turn to tailback Bill Burnett in most short yardage situations. Burnett was virtually unstoppable on the goal line, scoring 49 touchdowns.

Naturally, the Razorbacks' attack in close became stereotyped.

Broyles says the Wishbone, which the Razorbacks used a great deal in spring practice, gives the offense "broader striking areas."

"The Wishbone forces the defense to defend the width of the field," he said.

There were some who said the Wishbone did not lend itself to a passing attack. With Joe Ferguson at quarterback, any offense lends itself to a passing attack.

Ferguson, a 6-foot-2, 175-pounder has been getting rave notices since his high school days at Shreveport, La., Woodlawn. At Woodlawn, Ferguson broke the passing records of Terry Bradshaw—the first-round draft choice in the National Football League in 1970.

"Joe has a great arm with extreme accuracy," says Don Breaux, the Razorbacks' offensive backfield coach. "He is capable of throwing the ball outside as well as anyone I have seen on any level."

"Ferguson is an exceptional passer," says Broyles. "He has quick feet and quick hands and can scramble with the football. He also worked very hard on running the option play and did a good job of it this spring."

Besides 48 of 86 passes for 744 yards last year, Ferguson gained valuable experience in lengthy mop-up roles behind Bill Montgomery.

Ferguson will be throwing to Jim Hodge, a teammate at Shreveport, and Mike Reppond, a junior letterman, this fall.

Hodge started at flanker as a sophomore last year and caught 16 passes for 397 yards—an average of almost 25 yards a catch. Reppond, who made an excellent impression in the spring, caught nine passes for 164 yards as a reserve in 1970.

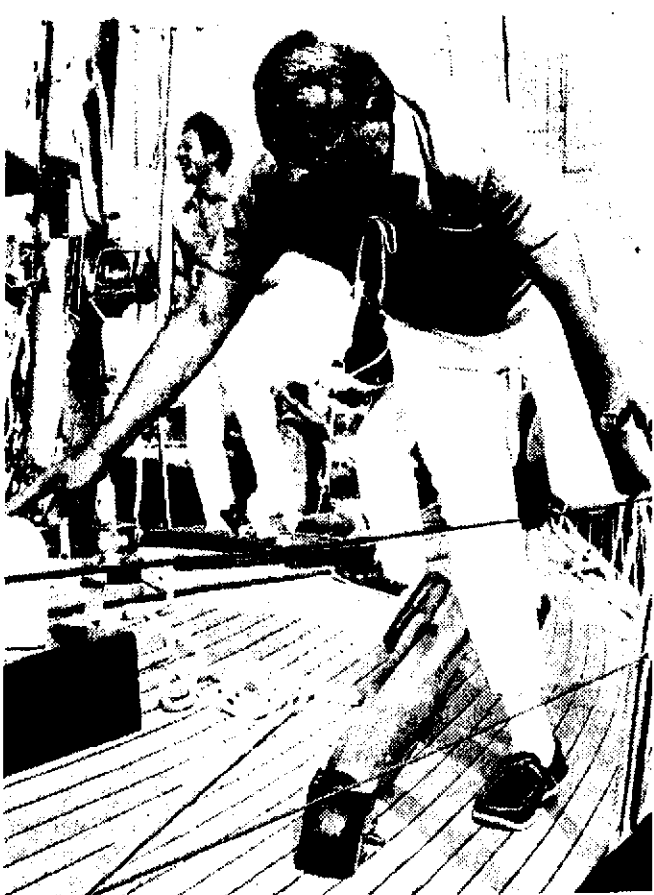

Besides the overhead route, the Razorbacks will be able to score on the ground with the likes of Jon Richardson, Russ Garber, Dicky Morton and Skipper DeBorde doing the ball-carrying.

Richardson, a game-breaker, averaged more than four yards a try last year while racking up 441 yards and 11 touchdowns. Garber started at fullback last year and gained 409 yards on 81 carries. Morton, a shifty sophomore from Dallas Kimball, will relieve Richardson and DeBorde is expected to be the third back when the Razorbacks go to the Wishbone.

The running backs will operate behind a strong and experienced offensive line that includes tackles Tom Mabry (6-6, 248) and Mike Kelson (6-4, 238) and guards Glen Lowe (6-4, 245) and Tom Reed (6-3, 230). Two sophomores, Ron Revard and Stuart Freeland, finished the spring in a dead heat for the center position.

Any rundown of Arkansas' offensive firepower must include kicker Bill McClard. McClard converted 50 of 51 extra points last year and connected on 10 of 15 field goal attempts, including an NCAA record 60-yarder against SMU.

The question marks are on defense. "Our defense is very inexperienced," Broyles said. "Many of them missed spring practice and our coaches have not had a chance to work with them."

"Our offense is going to have to keep the ball a lot in the early games to keep the pressure off of our defense until they can gain some overall game experience and know what it takes to play good football," Broyles said. "I don't believe in spring training that our defensive ends and tackles really knew what it took to be a good college football player."

At the end of spring practice, the depth chart showed Ronnie Jones and Steve Cox at defensive end and Archie Bennett and David Reavis at defensive tackle.

Jones, a linebacker for two years, played defensive end for three days in the spring and Cox, a sophomore, missed about half the spring with an injury.

Bennett was a reserve center last year and Reavis was a defensive end.

The linebackers may be two sophomores and a fullback. Danny Rhodes, an exceptional sophomore from Brazosport, Tex., will be the strongside linebacker. Scott Binion, a fullback who has not played defense since his high school days at Bishop, Tex., was moved to weakside linebacker after spring practice ended. Jim Benton, who lettered at defensive end last year, and John Wheat, a sophomore, battled throughout the spring for the middle linebacker slot.

"The potential is there," says Broyles. "We're just going to have to hope that they learn fast enough."

David Hogue and Jack Morris appear set at the corners and Corky Cordell will play the weak safety. Louis Campbell finished the spring in front in the battle for the other safety job. However, Morris and Hogue missed the spring work during which time Buddy Bennett installed his system that was so effective at Tennessee.

The game experience, which Broyles says the Razorbacks' defense must have, begins Sept. 11 at Little Rock when Arkansas meets California.

Staubach Is Big Gun in Dallas Win

By LARRY ELDRIDGE
Associated Press Sports Writer
FOXBORO, Mass. (AP)h — Even a new stadium, a record crowd of 60,423 and a monumental traffic jam couldn't steal the spotlight from Carl Garrett.

The hard-running New England back exploded for three long broken field jaunts to lead the way as the Patriots opened their new home with a 20-14 National Football League exhibition victory over the New York Giants Sunday night.

Midway in the first period he returned a kickoff 53 yards, then burst through the line and streaked 44 yards from scrimmage on the next play for his team's first touchdown.

In the third quarter he got loose again, racing 51 yards to help set up a nine-yard run by Jim Nance for what proved to be the decisive score.

"He's beautiful," said Nance of his running mate. "He's there already, no doubt about it. He was just great tonight, Unreal."

Frank Tarkenton, who came off the bench in the second half and directed a late surge which almost pulled the game out, said it wasn't easy going in that way. "I'd rather be a starting pitcher than a relief pitcher."

Roger Staubach and Norm Snead made strong bids for starting quarterback berths on the Dallas Cowboys and Minnesota Vikings, respectively, in Saturday night exhibition games.

Stockton Says He Just Lucked Out

By DAVE O'HARA
Associated Press Sports Writer
SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — "I lucked out," Stockton said Sunday after his one-stroke victory over Ray Floyd in a pressure-packed finish at Pleasant Valley Country Club. "I got a very good break and it may have been the turning point."

After taking the lead with a 14-foot birdie putt on the 60th hole, Stockton hit a five-iron shot which appeared headed for a hazard off the seventh green. The ball struck a girl, though, and dropped on the fringe, enabling Stockton to hold his par.

"The girl, about 10 years old, wasn't hurt," he said. "I holed out and gave her the ball. She followed me around the rest of the way. I saw her several times after that."

"You know, that's another good thing about playing near the end of the final round. There are always crowds around the greens. If you hit the ball low and call 'fore' softly enough, a bad shot will hit somebody and you can stay out of trouble."

Stockton, a former Southern California star who will be 20 in November, was in a joking mood after his first victory since he won the PGA championship one year ago.

However, he had to be all business on the course to ward off the challenge by Floyd, Rod Funseth and Bruce Crampton down the stretch of the 72-hole tournament.

Stockton, playing with Funseth ahead of Floyd, applied the pressure from the outset, sinking a 12-foot birdie putt to start the final round.

He moved into a tie for the lead with a 16-foot birdie putt on the 58th hole and went ahead to stay on the 60th.

He added birdies on the 11th, 14th and 15th greens for a sizeable 66 and a total of 13 under par 275, breaking Pleasant Valley's tournament record 276 set by Arnold Palmer in 1968.

He had earlier rounds of 69, 71, 71 as he pushed his career earnings over $425,000.

Floyd, winless on the tour since he captured the PGA championship in 1969, got a birdie on the final hole for a fine 68, enabling him to pick up second money of $18,810.

Funseth had a 69 for 278 after a 69 finish worth $11,715, while Crampton took a bogey six on the final hole and settled for fourth and $7,755.

Tied for fifth, good for $5,467 each, were Charles Coody, Lionel Hebert, Mike Reaser, Mike Hill and Homero Blancas. Graham slipped to a closing 75 and a share of a five-way tie at 282.

Allison Beats Petty by 3 Lengths

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer
The latest chapter in the Allison and Petty show was played in Michigan Sunday, but the auto racing weekend also saw Mark Donohue wrap up his second Trans-Am sedan title and Bobby Unser break into the winner's circle for the first time since June 17, 1970.

Bobby Allison beat stock car king Richard Petty by three car lengths to win the Yankee 400 mile stock car race at Michigan International Speedway, making it the third time in three weeks these two have battled to the wire.

Petty's car-length triumph over Allison in the Dixie 500 at Atlanta Aug. 1 propelled the acknowledged stock car king past the $1 million mark in career winnings.

Allison out-duelled Petty in a short track vent in Winston-Salem, N.C., the next week Petty came back to beat the newest of his rivals in another small track affair at Ona, W.Va., last weekend.

And there was doubt at Cambridge, Junction, Mich., Sunday as to who would hit the checkered flag first. Allison led 156 of the 197 laps around the banked oval, but in the end had to chase Petty down with only three laps to go in order to take the victory.

Allison's average speed was a record 149.799 miles per hour. His $15,695 first prize check boosted his season's earnings to $150,480—the best year he has ever had. Petty now lacks only $75 of climbing past the $200,000 mark for the first season in his career.

Buddy Baker, Petty's teammate, was third in a Dodge Maynard Troyer of Spencerport, N.Y., who narrowly escaped with his life in a wreck at Daytona Beach in February, was fourth in a Mercury. Fifth place went to Joe Frasson of Golden Valley, Minn., in a Dodge.

Unser, almost always the fastest in qualifying but seldom a finisher in recent races, beat venerable A. J. Foyt by 12 seconds in the 200 mile Tony Bettenhausen Classic at Milwaukee.

Waterfowl Regulations About Same

By JOHN KAMPS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Anticipating excellent fall flights, the Interior Department announced Saturday waterfowl regulation frameworks within which states select their 1971-72 hunting seasons.

The frameworks are about the same as last season and most species of ducks are expected to be moving down flyways as abundantly as in 1970, a good year for waterfowl hunters, Interior spokesman said.

The regulations are based on predictions by Fish and Wildlife Service biologists who in recent months have been making aerial surveys of nesting grounds in the north.

Optimism comes from habitat conditions in the prairie pot-holes of Canada and the northern United States where many of the favored game ducks breed.

These conditions have been described as excellent the past three years, following several years of drought.

The framework regulations were established after recommendations were made by state wildlife agencies, flyway councils and private conservation and wildlife organizations.

They are designed to maintain high breeding population levels of waterfowl while providing good hunting.

Specific hunting regulations within the Interior frameworks will be announced by state fish and game agencies.

Although the waterfowl situation is generally good, Interior said, there will be some special restrictions in certain flyways on species including canvasbacks, redheads, wood ducks and black ducks.

Some goose flocks still need special protection by regulation although goose populations are generally in good condition, it was reported.

Dates within which states may select open seasons, the length of the open season, bag limits and other special provisions include:

Central Flyway
States may fix, between Oct. 1 and Jan. 16, concurrent open seasons on ducks and coots of (a) 70 days with basic bag limits on ducks of 5 daily and 10 in possession; or (b) 55 days with basic bag limits on ducks of 6 daily and 12 in possession; and a bag limit on coots of 15 daily and 30 in possession.

Daily bag limits on ducks may not include more than 2 wood ducks and one canvasback or one redhead. The possession limit may not include more than 4 wood ducks and one canvasback or one redhead.

The bag limit on mergansers is 5 daily and 10 in possession, of which not more than one daily and 2 in possession may be hooded mergansers.

If a special point system season is selected by the states, 90-day seasons may be set in the High Plains Mallard Management Unit portions of Colorado, Kansas, Montana, Nebraska, New Mexico, South Dakota and Wyoming.

Flyway seasons on geese may be selected between Oct. 1 and Jan. 16 with a daily bag and possession limit of 5. Limits are lower in some states.

Pacific Flyway
States may select, between Oct. 2 and Jan. 16, concurrent open seasons on ducks, coots and gallinule of (a) 93 days with basic bag limits on ducks of 6 daily and 12 in possession; or a daily bag and possession limit of 7 ducks; or (b) 79 days with basic bag limits on ducks of 7 daily and 14 in possession, or a daily bag and possession limit of 8 ducks.

The Columbia basin states of Washington, Oregon and Idaho may set open seasons on ducks, coots and gallinule of 107 days between Oct. 2 and Jan. 23 with basic limits on ducks of 7 daily and 14 in possession.

The bag limit on mergansers is 5 daily and 10 in possession, of which not more than one daily and 2 in possession may be hooded mergansers.

Flyway states may set an open season on geese of 93 days with a basic daily bag and possession limit of 6, provided that the daily bag limit does not include more than 3 geese of the dark species. In Washington and Idaho the daily bag limit is three and the possession limit

Raising Horses Gives Peaceful Respite To Busy Mike Nichols

By IRA BERKOW
NEA Sports Editor

MIDDLETOWN, N.Y. — (NEA)—In the drizzle, in the mud, the horses with arched braided tails try to catch the scrupulous eye of the judge, who stands in the wet middle of the ring with a ring steward, who guards him against bribes of oats and such. The riders have long faces like their horses, have bloodlines like their horses. This is a horse show. The tension can be cut with a feather.

It's plenty exciting enough for Mike Nichols, movie and Broadway director. And he is cleaning up, though differently from years ago. In college in the early 1950s he shoveled manure to make a buck. Now, he stood near a stall, marked "Mike Nichols," with an armful of first-place ribbons and silver cups.

It's not so much the ribbons won, but the breeding done that is exciting for Nichols and is, he says, a displacement of anxiety from movies. The matchmaker for Burton and Taylor in "Who's Afraid of Virginia Wolff?", for Dustin Hoffman and Mrs. Robinson in "The Graduate," for, most recently, Ann-Margret and Jack Nicholson in "Carnal Knowledge," is concerned, away from the cameras, with enticing a well-withered stallion to romance a fine-flanked filly.

On this ashen August is 6 geese.

Special season dates and restrictions apply to some other states in the flyway.

In Utah, Nevada and Montana an open season for taking a limited number of whistling swans may be selected under certain conditions.

Atlantic Flyway

Between Oct. 1 and Jan. 20 states may select open seasons on ducks and coots of (a) 50 days with basic bag limits on ducks of 4 daily and 8 in possession; or (b) 40 days with basic bag limits on ducks of 5 daily and 10 in possession; or (c) 60 days with basic bag limits on ducks of 3 daily and 6 in possession; and a bag limit on coots of 15 daily and 30 in possession.

Restrictions include bag limits of 2 black ducks daily and 4 in possession, and daily bag limits of 2 wood ducks and one canvasback or one redhead, with possession limits of 4 wood ducks and one canvasback or one redhead.

The merganser bag limit is 5 daily and 2 in possession may be hooded mergansers.

The season on geese will be closed in Florida and Georgia.

Other Atlantic Flyway states, between Oct. 1 and Jan. 23, may select an open season on geese (except blue and snow geese) of 70 days; the daily bag limit is 3 and the possession limit is 6. North Carolina, South Carolina and the Virginia Back Bay area may select an open season on geese of 50 days with a daily bag limit of one and a possession limit of 2.

Mississippi Flyway

States may select, between Oct. 1 and Jan. 16, concurrent open seasons on ducks and coots of (a) 50 days with basic bag limits on ducks of 4 daily and 8 in possession; or (b) 50 days with basic bag limits on ducks of 6 daily and 12 in possession; and a bag limit on coots of 15 daily and 30 in possession.

The daily bag on ducks may not include more than 2 wood ducks and one canvasback or one redhead, and possession limits are 4 wood ducks and one canvasback or one redhead.

Mallard limits are 2 in the bag and 4 in possession. The limit on mergansers is 5 daily and 10 in possession, of which not more than one in the bag and 2 in possession may be hooded mergansers.

Between Oct. 1 and Jan. 23 Mississippi flyway states, except Louisiana, may select an open season of 70 days on geese, with a daily bag and possession limit of 5.

Louisiana may select, between Oct. 1 and Feb. 14, an open season of 70 days on blue, snow and white-fronted geese, with a daily bag and possession limit of 5 geese.

Some other states will have bag restrictions on Canada and white-fronted geese and special season provisions.

morning here at the Orange County Fairgrounds, with a distant Ferris wheel turning in a gray gayness. Mike Nichols took another step out of the present.

"These horses pull me into the future," said Nichols, sandy-haired, wearing muddied blue jeans. "I used to look at things from day to day. Breeding teaches you that you've got a little more time than you thought."

"I've been doing this for a year now, and I've got 30 horses at my stable in Connecticut. When you make a picture, everything's an emergency. But with the breeding of horses, well, you have to wait a year for gestation, three or four years more for maturation."

"A friend of mine, a doctor in Arizona who is a great breeder, told me the story of the old bull and the young bull. The bulls were on top of a hill and saw a herd of cows down below. The young bull said, 'Let's run down and get some cows.' The old bull said, 'Let's walk down and get them all.'"

This show was Nichols' fifth, and he has won 24 championships with six horses. His horses are Arabian and he owns some of the finest in the world, including a two-year-old colt named Talagato, which he bought for $25,000, one of the highest prices ever for an Arabian. Nichols will probably go to Poland soon to look for a suitable lover for Talagato, Poland being the great passion pit for Arabian-horse breeding.

The goal for the foal is a refined power with classic Arabian athleticism, a horse that will have "a balanced trot with impulsion," with wide eyes set apart like Sophia Loren's, with a fine throat latch, handsome croup and withers, and possessing, he said "hybrid vigor."

Nichols said he would rather own a show horse than a racehorse, though he has one of the latter. Allahabad, in fact, was a favorite for the latest Polish Derby; Nichols drew epithets from anticapitalist bettors when he brought the horse home before the race. "I was sorry," said Nichols.

PRO CHARTS

by MURRAY OLDERMAN
American Conference: Western Division
SAN DIEGO CHARGERS

PROSPECTUS—Sid Gillman shucked aside fact he'll be 60 this fall and opted for return to sideline generalship. It won't help his nerves. Chargers have been catching heel dust of Raiders, Chiefs for five straight years and are getting neurotic about it. If they don't watch out, they could even be passed by Broncos. A lot of personnel shuffling isn't going to provide immediate boost.

Offense
PASSING—Somewhat John Hadl remains the one constant on Raiders. Young Marty Domres just might be one of those ever-promising guys who's never delivering. Rating—B.

RUNNING—Copying pony idea from Chiefs and trying to get mileage from Mike Garrett, Dickie Pope, both 5-9, both damaged goods. And at other extreme, will display brawny (size 50 jacket) Leon Burns, the top draftee who's no kid. He spent a few years readjusting to society. Could be exciting pro. Rating—B-.

RECEIVING—Hard to envision Charger attack without Lance Alworth flitting deerlike among defenders. Off-field problems cut into his grid effectiveness. So Chargers made him marketable while he still had value. They've got a super receiver left in Gary Garrison and think Walker Gillette can make it as vis-a-vis threat. Also traded for Jerry LeVias, who can be a supertalent. Tight end trouble erased by acquisition of Pettis Norman from Cowboys in Alworth deal. Rating—B+.

LINE—The quality guy is Walt Sweeney at one guard post. Maybe if Russ Washington learns to use his beef (300 pounds) they have a tackle in same class. Also shifting Bill Lenkaitis from guard to center. Addition of ex-Cowboy tackle Tony Liscio will perk them up. Rating—B.

Prediction
Chargers, as usual, will score lot, yield more. Finish third in West.

WHEN MIKE NICHOLS finds the grind of being a film and stage director to be too much, he seeks refuge in the relatively serene world of horse raising. The animal below is one of his charges.

"but I was more interested in breeding him."

He has had thoughts of doing a horse movie. "I like the story of Godolphin Arabian," said Nichols. "He was one of the three original thoroughbreds. The story goes that he wound up hauling wood on the streets of Paris before he was miraculously rediscovered. That would be a great story to do, except that the stable boy was supposed to be mute. It's hard writing dialogue for someone like that."

In the stall behind Nichols now, his gray yearling, Maya, whinnied and snorted. Maya had come in second in this, her first competition. Nichols had been worried about how she would haul, how she would react to the show. He thought she had done fine, and has high hopes for her competitive and breeding future. But that was all a matter of time.

Nichols put his hand between the slats and stroked Maya's nose. "Next year," said Nichols, softly, "or the year after."

Shaw Takes Senior Champ Tournament

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—Cliff Shaw of Little Rock shot a 73 Sunday for a 218 total to win the medalist competition in the state Seniors Champion Golf Tournament here.

W. A. Dowell of Walnut Ridge also shot a 73 for a 219 total to finish second.

The tournament was divided into two contests after 18 of the golfers elected to play medalist golf with the remaining 71 playing four-ball.

Jim Porter and Bill Fletcher, both of Little Rock, won the four-ball competition with a total of 212. In second place were Hugh Williams and Henry Wilkerson, both of Little Rock, with 215.

Slav Pulls a Big Upset in Tennis Play

By MIKE HARRIS
Associated Press Sports Writer
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Zeljko Franulovic, the calm but relentless Yugoslav tennis star, showed little emotion but exulted in his sensational victory over American star Cliff Richey here Sunday.

Franulovic won his second National Clay Courts Open singles championship with his 6-3, 6-4, 0-6, 6-3 victory over the United States Lawn Tennis Association (USLTA) top ranked male.

"For me," the long-haired, mustachioed Franulovic said, "this tournament is more important than Wimbledon. I don't play well on grass, but I play better on clay."

"The two tournaments I most like to play in are here and in Paris at the French Open," he added.

Franulovic won $8,000 for his victory over Richey in a rivalry that has become epic. It is a knock-down, drag-out battle when the two meet, and the two of them have made this tournament almost their personal property.

Richey, from Sarasota, Fla., won the tournament in 1966 and in 1970, when he beat Franulovic in the quarterfinals. Zeljko won here in 1969 when he beat Richey in the semifinals.

The USLTA's top woman player, Billie Jean King, Lone Beach, Calif., did just what she was expected to do, beating defending champion Linda Tuero, 6-4, 7-5, to win the women's singles.

In her first appearance in the National Clay Courts Open, Mrs. King won $5,000 to raise her year's earnings to $72,000, more than any other non-contract professional, men or women.

Franulovic and Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia won the men's doubles, 7-6, 5-7, 6-3, over the top-seeded team of Clark Graebner, New York City, and Eric Van Dillen, San Mateo, Calif.

Mrs. King teamed with Judy Dalton of Australia, one of the world's best doubles players, to win the women's pairs. They routed Miss Tuero and Julie Heldman, Houston, Tex., 6-1, 6-2.

The total payoff for the seven-day tournament was $58,000.

Ex-Boxer Succumbs in Rome

ROME (AP) — Erminio Spalla, popular Italian heavyweight in the 1920s who held the European heavy championship from 1923-1926, died Saturday. He was 74.

Spalla, known as The Gentle Giant, fought Gene Tunney in New York on June 26, 1924, and was knocked out in the seventh round. The kayo helped Tunney gain his title bout with world champion Jack Dempsey in 1926.

After he gave up boxing Spalla became a painter and sculptor, a musician and movie actor. He sang as a bass in the opera.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB
Second Most Common Cause of Death

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Since cancer is one of our leading killers, I would like for you to write some articles on the types, signs and treatments, also the returning signs after an operation or treatment. I have heard that although radium extends life it causes a more drawn-out, painful death. Is this true? What is your opinion of mercy deaths? If I could be quietly put to sleep when I reach the stage of constant pain and helplessness, I could face the future. The remaining parent will have enough problems raising the children without the mountains of hospital bills and the weeks of waiting. I read and enjoy your column every day.—A Cancer Patient

Dear Reader—You've given me quite a task. True, cancer is the second most common cause of death (responsible for 16 per cent of all deaths), exceeded only by heart and vascular disease (54 per cent).

To simplify matters, let me explain that a cancer is really composed of cells of any part of the body that have lost their normal growth pattern and start growing "wild." Any part of the body can spawn a cancer of its own type, producing a lung cancer, blood cancer (leukemia) or cancer of the colon. The symptoms of cancer depend on the organ involved and the location of the cancer. A cancer around the bile duct, for example, can obstruct bile flow and cause yellow jaundice (jaundice can also be caused by a lot of other things).

Many cancers can be prevented; others cured and still others controlled. Men have more skin cancers than any other type (23 per cent), about 90 per cent of these are on the face—related to excess exposure to sun and wind. Shaving removes one of nature's protective devices against cancer. Where the face is not covered normally with a beard, sebaceous glands in the skin secrete oil for natural protection. Only 13 per cent of cancers in women are from the skin. In men, 18 per cent of the cancers are of the lungs—and most of them could be prevented by not smoking cigarettes.

Most skin cancers can be cured if they are completely removed early. So can many other cancers.

No, I don't think radium makes the disease more painful and drawn out. I am also hopeful that a major national effort can lick the cancer problem soon. Meanwhile, I'm not for euthanasia. I am not God. I haven't seen many doctors who were canonized. Doctors should do the best they can to relieve human suffering and help people regain or maintain their health and that is all.

Certain signs are often (but not always) associated with cancer and require an early visit to the doctor. These include: unexplained weight loss, change in bowel or bladder habit, unexplained bleeding, unexplained sore, discharge, thickening or new lump anywhere, change in wart or mole, indigestion or trouble swallowing, unexplained cough or hoarseness.

Please send your questions and comments to Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Lamb cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Oswald: "When we were in Sweden last year winning the World's championship, we received a copy of Jeremy Flint's book, 'Tiger Bridge.' Somehow it was filed away."

Jim: "It covers expert play problems. This hand from chapter one shows how an expert counts a hand and plays for his contract."

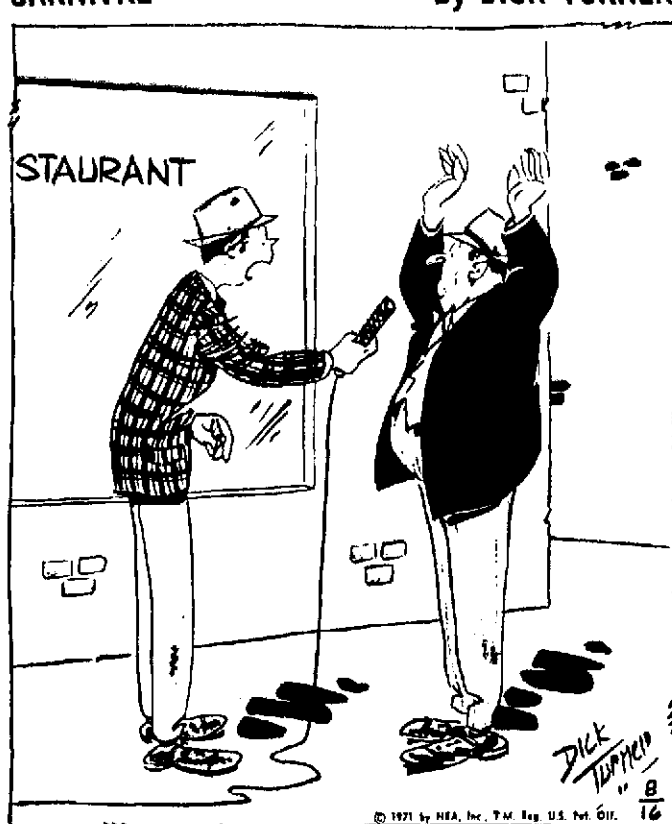

Oswald: "West is decidedly unenterprising. He stays out of the bidding when his partner can make four spades. He also aids the defense by playing the king and ace of spades. If he shifts to the queen of clubs at trick two, he'll beat declarer two tricks."

Some Think He Didn't Go Far Enough

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
President Nixon's proposals for improving the economy have won qualified approval from a number of business and labor leaders, but some said the plans do not go far enough.

The heads of two of the Big Three automakers praised the President's move but an executive of a textile manufacturers group said the proposals "just won't get the job done."

No comment was immediately available from the National Association of Manufacturers.

An AFL-CIO spokesman said the labor organization probably would comment on the moves later today. AFL-CIO President George Meany has previously endorsed wage and price controls is applied equitably across the board.

"I am pleased with the President's approach to these problems which have a bearing on all business," said James M. Roche, chairman of General Motors Corp. "He has taken the initiative in identifying some of these problems and coming to grips with them."

He said the President's proposal for repeal of the 7 per cent automobile excise tax was a "good step in the right direction and will help make our cars more competitive with the foreign imports."

Roche said removing the excise tax will trim about $190 off the price of GM's new car—with the savings going into the pocket of the consumer.

Despite Roche's statement, a GM spokesman said he could not comment on whether the company will consider the freeze to extend to price increases already announced for 1972 models.

The hikes at GM—as at Ford and Chrysler Corp.—amounted to 4 to 5 per cent.

Lynn Townsend, chairman of Chrysler Corp., had said last week that one of the quickest and most effective ways to revive the economy would be to abolish the 7 per cent federal excise tax on new automobiles.

W. Ray Shockley, executive vice president of the South Carolina Textile Manufacturers Association, commented: "Anything that attempts to establish some order out of the chaos in international trade in which the textile business finds itself will be welcome."

GOOD TO SEE

(From Page one)

But when did you do what your Mommy and Daddy told you to do?

"As soon as I could."
"Like what."
"Like cleaning up a room. Yours would give a pigsty a bad name."

"Well, I'll clean up my room as soon as I can, but don't you want me to do my homework first? You're always telling me that education comes first. I can't do everything at the same time."

By such feminine logic she evaded command. Her mother Frances became of less help because after 11 days short of 31 years of marriage, when Tracy was only half past 15, she died of cancer.

There were many months of family chaos when I bought the family groceries, fed the cat, washed the dishes I didn't break, and Tracy evaded her grief by submerging her life in the lives of her schoolmates. I suppose that unconsciously she felt home had betrayed her, and that her mother's death showed an adolescent can't trust adults because they leave you insecure without fair warning.

But now she has shaken herself free from the doldrums of loss. She has come home to home again, a little mother as well as daughter of it. She feeds Lady Dottie the cat, does the dishes now and then, cooks for her boy friend often and sometimes for me.

She wanted a car to go to college and I told her, "You can have it if you earn it." She immediately wangled a job in a mailroom and is making a bigger dollar than I did at twice her age. Her boss said she is a good and steady worker. She hasn't missed a day.

Tracy Ann is very loving and proud now, full of big plans for her future. Now she takes me into her confidence.

"I may not be a teacher or a nurse," she said. "I may be either an actress or a veterinarian."

Anything you want to be, honey. The world is yours.

As I said at the start, there is no greater rescue from the miniship of parenthood than to see your teen-ager begin to be a human being. Perhaps there'll be no light at the end of the tunnel, and posterity is worthwhile after all, as we hope it was to our own fathers and mothers.

No Harm in Law, Says Board Head

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The director of the state consumer protection division staff says the new consumer protection law "won't be harmful to the business community, but it will encourage the business community to be informed about consumer problems."

Mrs. Clyde Calliotte made the statement Saturday at the first meeting of the state Consumer Protection Advisory Board.

Mrs. Nixon Promoting Parks, People

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Richard Nixon is off today on a cross-country trip promoting the President's "Parks to the People" program by turning over $10.5 million worth of federal land in five states for recreational use.

The first stop on the three-day trip in nearby McLean, Va. Accompanied by the President's top domestic adviser, John D. Ehrlichman, Mrs. Nixon will drive from the White House to take part in the McLean ceremonies, transferring 230 acres of federal highway department land near the George Washington Memorial Parkway to the National Park Service.

Ehrlichman will make the formal speech, citing the administration's efforts to give unused federal properties to state and local governments for public leisure-time use, particularly in areas near congested cities.

Mrs. Nixon will present the official certificate of transfer to National Park Service Director George Hartzog so the acreage can be put to public use for walking and biking trails, baseball park and picnic spot.

After that, the President's wife will take off from Dulles Airport for Battle Creek, Mich., for afternoon ceremonies turning over 2,037 acres or about one-fourth of the land at famed Ft. Custer Military Reservation.

With an overnight stop in Minneapolis, Mrs. Nixon will visit Fort Snelling, Minn., and Camp White in Medford, Ore., Tuesday and Border Field, Calif., Wednesday for similar activities. Altogether she will officiate at the turnover of 4,243 acres of federal property.

At the windup Wednesday she'll go to the Western White House at San Clemente, Calif., for a two-week stay. Nixon will join her there Thursday after a three-day speech making cross-country trip of his own.

Mrs. Nixon is flying aboard a Boeing 707 jet of the presidential fleet, accompanied by her staff and 14 newsmen.

Her press secretary, Constance Stuart, said the first lady's trip is NOT political. But Frank Leonard, director of publications for the Republican National Committee, went along to give Mrs. Nixon's journey a
